Cultural Orientation: Cultural and social activities are super important for students' overall growth. Taking part in these activities improves how students talk to each other, work in teams, and build friendships, preparing them for future challenges. Additionally, participation in cultural activities can improve the academic performance of students. It also helps in students' physical, behavioral, and social development. So, we provided cultural orientations to 120 individuals at our office : 2172 Rassy Way, Sacramento, CA 95821

Mental Health Program The program aims to assess the mental health needs of the Sacramento Afghan community and engage community members in activities that decrease the negative impact of their daily stressors. Potential stressors include housing insecurity, difficulties meeting basic needs, uncertainties regarding immigration status, employment and education challenges, language and cultural barriers, loss of social and economic status, and discrimination.
